

I think this is a horrible idea. Airplanes are already fairly noisy when you combine engine noise, crying babies, etc. Many people shout or yell into their cells because they think they cannot be heard unless they do. The noise level with tons of people all talking in loud voices at the same time would be unbearable and would I'm sure cause many fights. If you are worried at all about air rage, this is the last thing you should think about doing. Please do not allow this to happen.
